DEATH OF HON. A. G. MACKAY

After a very short illness, Hon. A. G. Mackay, died at Edmonton on Sunday last, from pneumonia. Mr. Mackay's death will be a serious blow, as he has been one of the leading members of the Provincial Government, and a man who was progressive in his views and an untiring worker in the departments of Municipal Affairs and Health, over which he presided.

His ability as an able lawyer has been taxed to the utmost in unraveling many municipal tangles in the province during the past year, and he has always been willing to do his utmost to help out municipalities in their troubles. He was always a strong Liberal, and was one of the best platform orators in the province. His untimely death is a great misfortune to the province of Alberta, and has left a vacancy that will be hard to fill by any other man in the west.

DREADED KIND OF CLOSED SHOP

"One of the leading British piano-making firms has taken action which is regarded as an object-lesson in the economic danger of pushing labor demands to the extreme. John Brinsmead & Sons announce their decision to retire from business and close their factory, in which are employed over 300 people, some of whom have been with the firm forty years. Mr. Brinsmead pointed out that for each piano turned out per week there are 26 employees, against 12 in 1918 and 6 before the war. Factory wages on each piano exceed the selling price. The cost of polishing alone is equal to the pre-war cost of completed pianos, including the materials.

"We cannot go on manufacturing at the present high cost," a director said. "This is no quarrel with our employees; it is simply the whole tendency of labor at the present time, which is to force prices up to such an extent that it is impossible to manufacture any more economically."

DON'T ROCK THE BOAT

Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, of the United States, recently made the statement that in industrial truce of six months would do more to bring down prices than any other one thing. This assertion is corroborated by a statistical authority who has recently made a tabulation of the cost of strikes. In August and September, there were in the United States five hundred and eighty strikes, which involved three hundred and eighty thousand men and caused three million, one hundred and ninety thousand days of idleness. More than forty-one million dollars were lost in wages to the workers, and more than four million dollars were lost in profits to the employers.

And these are only the first costs of strikes. The loss to employers through the year amounts to more than two million tons of coal, two million pairs of shoes and thirty-seven million garments.

In Canada in 1919 we made a new record for strikes and labor disputes. Including eight carried over from 1918, there were 298 strikes and lock-outs, involving 138,388 employees and 1,513 employers, and resulting in an aggregate loss of 3,942,139 working days. Of the strikes, 157 terminated in favor of the employers and 85 for the employees, 23 being ended by compromise settlements, and 30 were put in the "indefinite" column.

The mere recital of the figures is the strongest plea for compromise of industrial disputes that could be made. The actual loss of several millions of working days can never be computed in money, or mental, or physical values to individuals of the nation. To employer and employee alike the record of 1919 should be allowed to stand alone as a warning of follies to be shunned in the future.

"This is no time to rock the boat," says Samuel Gompers in a statement addressed to union men, who, he fears may play into the hands of reactionaries filled with the desire to destroy the trades union movement. That advice is applicable to some employers. The grave and perplexing problems confronting them as executives are pressing the worker as an individual. To him they are as important as the larger issues to the employer. Team-play is the solution.

"One Who is Taking an Interest in Forward Movement" writes, in another column. We would that such writers would sign their own names to their communications. It always has more effect. When a person is hiding behind a non-descript name, he is very apt to stab in the dark—to say things he would not say if he were known. Now this writer is blaming Dr. Collison for saying the revolution was over. What Dr. Collison really said was, "he noticed by one of the papers that the revolution was over." The News in "This and That" merely stated that fact as a job. The revolution was against Commissioner Stephenson for only doing his duty as he best knew. The writer of the letter says Commissioner Stephenson was perfectly right in refusing the use of the hall. That is the stand we have taken all along. That is the stand the Council has taken. And there the whole matter rests. That is all there is to it.

The article on another page by Dr. Service, who visited Red Deer last week, will be of interest to the readers of The News.

Dr. Service is enlisting the practical support of the doctors, dentists and nurses of Canada in an effort to raise $100,000 to build and equip a medical-dental college in West China. The appalling conditions which obtain in China render it imperative that western medical science should come to the rescue and clean up China.

It has been said that "What we wish to appear in the life of a nation

we must first put into its schools."

The churches in Western China have established a Union University, which is already in operation, and the addition of this building designed for the training of native doctors, dentists and nurses shows that the problem is being grappled with in a way that will prove a great benefit for generations to come. The ideal of helplessness is winning its way in every profession, and the disinterested activities of the medical and dental profession in Canada to establish the science of healing in China will be productive of great good at home and abroad.

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By Rev. G. D. Armstrong

"And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for charity shall cover a multitude of sins."—1 Peter, 4:8.

Is the spirit of brotherhood advancing? Is charity exalted as the highest Christian virtue and do men in increasing numbers yield themselves in obedience to the law of love. The word "charity" has lost its early significance, and is associated with conditions which are repugnant to right thinking minds. Refusing to submit to a system which degrades his manhood, the masses of mankind are crying out today, "Away with your charity, give us justice."

As used by the apostle, however, there was nothing implied by subordination of one class by another, and we have come to substitute the word "love" as a modern term which more accurately expresses the original meaning.

The writer of Genesis regarded the spirit of self-interest as one of the primitive instincts of mankind, manifesting itself in the murderous act of Cain and his potential cry, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Down through the ages tribal strife, class struggle, national wars, race hatred and religious competition and persecution have marked the continuance of selfishness in the life of humanity.

It is not therefore to be wondered at if we have sometimes been led to question the progress of humanity and to doubt that the spirit of brotherhood is really advancing.

As civilization advances and life's problems become more complex, it becomes increasingly difficult to express the principle of religion in human organizations till Church and State come to be regarded as soulless corporations in which the personal pity and generosity of the individual are lost sight of in an effort to build up the kingdoms of the world. "We stretch out our hands, greedy, grasping, tyrannical, to possess the earth. Domination, power, glory, money, merchandise, luxury, these are the things we aim at; but what we really gain is pest and famine, grinding labor, the enslaved hate of men and women, ghosts, dead and death-breathing ghosts that haunt our lives forever."

But there is another side to the picture, another interpretation of history, a saner view of progress than this, and we must see life, full orb'd, before we pronounce it failure. And no one has been so subtle and so seen life clearly and seen it whole.

The codes which have been formulated by man as ever higher standards of morality. The selfish plea of Cain is replaced by the stern requirements of the Decalogue. "Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not kill." And later on this negative commandment is superseded by the positive of Deuteronomy. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Exalted as this standard is, it does not do justice to mankind and a noble way is set forth in the new commandment of Jesus, "that ye love one another, as I have loved you." Granted that men have not lived on the heights, but on lower planes, these summits have been made possible by the progress of mankind till it was possible for God to work with "human hands the creed of creeds, in loveliness of perfect deeds."

"For while the third waves, vainly breaking, seem here no painful task to gain, Far back, through creeks and inlets making, Comes silent, flooding in, the main." In the life of Jesus, in His teaching, in His death, ideal man is seen. He is indeed the "first fruits of that sleep." In Him, humanity awakened to a new day—a new standard of living was displayed in Him. Divine love has found expression. The day-star from on high has visited us, and His glory has lightened all our way. Never in the history of the world has human sin been understood more truly and as deeply as in the present age—in spite of the sordid tragedy of the war, and the more cruel struggle for economic right. There was never a time in the world's history when men were so eager to relieve distress, and to adopt constructive measures for the bringing about of better conditions.

There are several lines on which progress will soon be possible. Several problems to be dealt with we can even now clearly see can only be solved by practically applying the principle of Christian love. The unifying of church life, the prohibition of the liquor traffic, the christianizing of the social order, the effective formation of a league of nations and the evangelization of the world. All burning questions in human life today reveal the power and the necessity of the creating energy of divine love.

The call to get together, to sacrifice for a common cause, to live together in comradeship, is heard, with increasing clearness and insistence, in ever widening circles of mankind. The plea today is not so much "Am I my brother's keeper?" but rather "How best can I serve my day and generation?"

FEW INDICATIONS OF MAY DAY STRIKES

Toronto, April 22.—Reports obtained today from Canadian Press correspondents in various cities in Eastern Canada indicate that the prospects this year for May Day and the traditional strike season in most cities do not promise any serious tie-up in industry. So far as the building trades are concerned, except in the case of Hamilton, a settlement has been reached between employers and the unions in nearly all the trades, and if there is a cessation of building operations, it will be on account of the cost of materials, and not because of labor troubles. There are prospects, however, in Toronto, London and other points, of street railway strikes, but in most cases, the agreements do not run out till later in the summer. Socialist organizations in Toronto, Montreal and other cities are preparing for extensive demonstrations, largely in the form of parades and open air meetings on the afternoon of May Day.

FLOORS

Take up your old cloth and linoleum and paint the floor with STEPHENS' Floor Paint

A really good Floor Paint—STEPHENS'—is a wonderful aid to modern ideas of sanitation. With painted floors, there is no place for dirt and germs to collect, unseen and unreach-able for months, as with a floor covering. It is cheaper to apply, and lasts a long time, and, unlike an old cloth, for instance, can always be matched and renewed.

Stephens' Floor Paint

makes a smooth, hard, pleasing surface of any floor. It sinks into the wood and can be kept clean and sanitary with very little work, immeasurably lessening the housewife's labours. It dries quickly and is easily applied by anyone. In the kitchen, pantries, porches, for verandah floors and sleeping balconies—you need a good Floor Paint. Next time, for your own advantage, don't just say "Some Paint," but specify STEPHENS'.

A Montreal Woman's Experience—Says Internal Bathing Saved Her Life.

If the thousands of men and women with constipation and the many ills which follow would bathe internally instead of continually dosing themselves with drugs, they would soon realize why every user of the J.B.L. Cascade is so enthusiastic in its praise. There should be one in every home. Keep the colon clean and free from poisonous waste and you will not need the doctor.

Mrs. Robert Gordon, 422 Cadillac St., Montreal, Que., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of the J.B.L. Cascade. It has saved my life. I have been troubled with constipation, piles and ulceration of the bowels for years. I have only been using the Cascade for three months, and am happy to be doing my own work again after having been laid up for so many months. I would not take one hundred dollars for my Cascade if I could not procure another."

The J.B.L. Cascade is the only perfect appliance for internal bathing. The invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, of New York, and is doing more towards improving the health and efficiency standard of the nation than all other means combined.

This appliance is shown and explained at The Gault-Cornett Drug & Book Co., Ltd. Phone or ask them for free booklet, "Why Man of Today is Only 50% Efficient"—or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 161 College St., Toronto.

EXAMINER'S REVIEW OF PROVINCIAL MARKETS

Calgary, April 23.

Cattle

Decided weakness was shown in the Calgary market this week, which is to some extent due to the fat stuff not being up to the average and partly to a lower tendency. The top steers are quoted from $12.75 to $13.85; good butchers $11 to $12.50; fat cows are also lower and the offerings light. Range of prices being $10 to $11.50 on the tops and $8.75 to $10.25 on the good butchers. The few sales which have been somewhat inferior and prices lower. There have not been enough real calves to make a market, and medium and common steers are being taken out as feeders at prices from $10.50 down. Next week is moving week at the Calgary yards and most of the commission firms will be moving into quarters in the new Exchange building.

Hogs
Bad roads which have kept the cattle off the market have had even a more serious effect in reducing hog shipments to the Calgary yards. There were only a few lots sold up to this morning. The few sales which were made yesterday were at $21.75. This morning there were few in the pens and they sold at $21.25 to $21.75. Edmonton has been getting a fair supply of hogs for this season, and prices have advanced somewhat over a week ago with the Thursday sales at $20.75.

Sheep
Calgary yards have been practically bare of sheep again during the week. Prices are approximately around $17 on lambs; $14 on wethers and breaking ewes from $9 to $18.

Horses
This week has been quiet at the horse auctions, with only a few of the good ones being taken by shippers to the coast. They are willing to pay good prices, but the buyers of the medium class horses have been scared off by the weather. A few outstanding teams brought from $500 to $600, but for the horses which have not marked superiority there is practically no sale. Fine weather is badly needed as a spring tonic for the horse trade.

Grain
Weather conditions are swinging the grain markets and the unfavorable spring which appears to be general over the whole continent is causing much uncertainty. Western

WE WANT YOUR BUSINESS

Canada farmers have been in some instances taking advantage of a few fine spells to get on the land, but there is no general movement owing to wet weather. The U. S. department of agriculture is pointing out to the farmers south of the line that present indications are that their wheat yield according to present indications will be under normal. At the same time there are many predictions that the Canadian yield in the west will be reduced owing to the late season. Flax has suffered a serious break during the week, owing to reports that Argentine offerings are underselling shipments from North America.

Produce
Eggs have supplied the only excitement in the produce trade this week, and light receipts have again advanced the price and quotations are from $13.50 down. An improvement in the country roads would bring prices down considerably. Cream shipments have also been coming and butter is holding unchanged, with a good demand for good dairy butter, but little offered. Potatoes continue scarce and prices widely spread; some shippers are asking up to $100 for good potatoes which would do for seed, but sales are being made at country points far below this. Live poultry is being largely sold in the country, little finding its way to the markets, but good prices paid.

Hay
Conditions are improving so far as supplies are concerned, and private dealers and the government are reporting considerable coming in. Calgary dealers are quoting timothy on track from $55 to $60.

Hides
Prices are unchanged but the tone of the market is weaker.

The Office of Service

NOBODY COULD GUESS

Nobody could guess in what building or section a serious fire might occur this week—or next.

For the very next fire might be a very personal matter to you. Are you well insured? Isn't it a comfort to feel that a fire disaster cannot "wipe you out"?

And, if amply insured, you may feel that way.

THE MAN WHO WAITS UNTIL HE HAS TO BUY COAL BEFORE BUYING IS MANAGING BADLY

He ought not to manage any part of his business in that way. And buying coal is part of a man's business—a rather important part. No man is a "good provider" who keeps a sort of uncertainty in the home about the fuel supply. Buying "in advance" of actual needs is always possible—and always good business.

We want a chance to serve you with your coal.

Making a Flat World Round

When Columbus set out to reach India

by sailing westward, he met with opposition and ridicule. He believed the earth to be round.

Wise men held that it was flat—that Columbus was mad—and that he'd fall off some where if he departed from established beliefs. But Columbus' belief found him a continent and made him blessed of memory.

The Business World is flat to some men

Their profit-bearing shores of Opportunity stretch only so far as their grandfathers trod. Custom, superstition and apathy have set them confines which they may not pass.

For instance, they believe the business year is a flat one—not an all-year round of trade, with East joining West, with Spring merging into Autumn—but just two distinct seasons, with saved-off edges gaping into space.

They confine their activities to a Spring trade and to a Fall trade. To them there is no intervening continent with stores of waiting wealth. Their world is flat. They have not explored the mid-year months of Summer trade. June, July and August are never-never land.

Surely this conception of Summer as a "dull" season is as fallacious as the delusion that the earth was flat. People have just as much money in the hot weather and spend quite as freely as in Spring and Fall. Granted that they are not buying skates and snow shovels in August, yet they are buying staple articles. Furthermore, they have an eye on luxuries and comforts they are counting upon purchasing in the Fall.

The modern Columbus has discovered this Summer trade—this golden West lying between the known continents of old beliefs. Departing from established habit, many have made their energies and their advertising an all-year-round proposition.

Keeping up Advertising during the Summer months not only links your Spring and Fall, but produces rich harvests from the Summer months themselves.

Keep up your Advertising in the News and get best results.

CHINA'S NEEDS

THE MEDICAL SITUATION

Chen. W. Service, B.A., M.D., Chengtu
This article is largely based on one written by Mr. Roger S. Greene, Resident Director in China of the Rockefeller Foundation China Medical Board.

From a professional point of view the state of a modern Chinese hospital in China may be thus described: (1) To relieve suffering; (2) To afford a model for the Chinese; (3) To be a means by which Chinese Christians may make their own contribution to the healing and enlightenment of their own land; (4) As a centre for medical research; (5) As a teaching institution.

What is the situation that the medical missionary—whether doctor, dentist, nurse or pharmacist—faces? Despite a high degree of racial immunity, the ravages of disease are manifold. In addition to the extreme high child mortality and the otherwise high death-rate from small pox, tuberculosis, etc., the situation is being increasingly aggravated by the sudden introduction of western machinery without adequate safeguards, by railroads, by over-crowding in modern schools, workshops and factories. More frequent intercourse with foreign countries increases the risk of infection from without, while greater rapidity and convenience of internal communications causes the more rapid spread of such outbreaks as that of Pneumonic Plague in Manchuria, in 1919, which carried off 60,000 people.

What are the forces available to deal with this situation? The government has as yet no active organization to safeguard public health. A beginning has been made in medical education, but none of the few government medical schools has a qualified staff or the necessary equipment, while their standard of admission is so low that it is useless to expect of them in the near future any very useful output in the way of ordinary practitioners, to say nothing of the leaders who are the country's first need.

Turning from the problem of prevention, how many doctors are there in China to care for her millions of sick and wounded? We may pass over the practitioners of the old-style Chinese medicine, although they possess an empirical knowledge of certain remedies for simple disorders. They are untrained in the use of modern medicine, and in the face of epidemics, plagues, surgical conditions and most nervous illnesses they are powerless.

Of the properly qualified practitioners of western medicine the most important group are the missionaries, doctors who number about 400. Then there is a handful of Chinese doctors trained abroad. There are also about 400 who have studied in lower grade Japanese medical schools.

Finally, we have the Chinese who have been trained in medical schools organized in China. Including those conducted by missions, by the Chinese government, by German, French, British, United States and Japanese organizations, there are only about twenty such schools in the whole of China, and from them there have been turned out about 1000 graduates. Only a small minority of these are doing creditable work. Yet including all the above mentioned classes we have a maximum of 2000 practitioners, one for every 200,000. In Ontario there are 3000, and in Toronto 800 doctors. Allowing about 2000 for China, she should have at least 200,000. She is actually short over 99% of what would be a reasonable number if it had received a thorough training.

A study of these facts forces us to the conclusion that so few foreign agencies, however numerous or richly endowed, can do more than touch the problem of the immediate needs of China, or relieve more than an infinitesimal part of the suffering, and they can help to solve the problem of the future only in so far as they can inspire the Chinese to work out their own salvation. However efficient or devoted the medical missionary may be, limitations of time and physical endurance restrict the work that he can personally do within very narrow limits.

There are, roughly, 250 mission hospitals in China, and as there are less than 400 doctors actually on the field at any one time, this makes an average of about one and a half foreign doctors in each hospital. Indeed, most of the stations have only one, while not a few are at present without a doctor.

With the vast extension of the field of medical knowledge, it is now impossible for the doctors to sufficiently be up to date to do justice to themselves and to their patients. If they are obliged to cover the whole field of medicine, surgery and the various specialties, besides doing their own laboratory work. A more exact medical science means a closer study of cases with the obvious result that the number of cases under one physician must be greatly reduced.

There is actually less than one missionary nurse for every two hospitals. A primary essential to secure a hygienic and a scientific hospital is a competent western nurse. Non-hygienic hospitals are a reproach to western science and to Christianity. Missionary dietitians and pharmacists are almost negligible in number. There are probably less than a dozen of each in the whole of China.

As regards buildings, many hospitals are only old Chinese houses, or cheap foreign style structures. Many are without suitable kitchens, efficient heating systems, satisfactory bedding and clothing, adequate ward equipment, lavatories, laundries, bathrooms and laboratories. Sterilizing and operating rooms and their equipment are often very inadequate. Such conditions, in which much of the medical work has been done, are most discouraging.

These conditions should be stimulated enough to hasten us to remedy these defects. But it is worth while remembering that the number of Chinese who have some idea of what hospital treatment means is rapidly increasing, and we must see to it that our institutions do not bring discredit upon the name they bear. Many of the unfortunate conditions mentioned are gradually being remedied, and more and more the doctors are coming into their own. Many institutions have been transformed during recent years, which reflects great credit on the doctors and nurses in charge, and on the missions and constituencies which have so generously backed up the professional staff. But much still remains to be done.

A LITTLE NONSENSE NOW AND THEN

Making Little Things Count—Teaching arithmetic in an infants' school.

Unparalleled Disipation—Crowd of Eskimos singing. "We won't go home till morning!"

A Question of Credit—Carey: "It's always to a man's credit when he stops drinking." Phipps: "Sometimes it is due to his lack of credit."

A Merciful Dispensation—Asten: "My wife speaks six different languages." Manley: "Well, you need not worry—she can only speak one at a time."

His Recollection—Visitor to wounded soldier in hospital: "And what struck you most when they turned the machine guns on you?" Patient: "The bullets that didn't hit me!"

Inconsistency—A: "I'm told that if I treat my wife I am liable to a fine of ten pounds or more." B: "Yes, my boy; and if you ill-treat her you may get off with forty shillings and costs!"

Still the Same—"How is your son this morning, Mrs. Blend?" asked a neighbor. "Oh," replied Mrs. Blend, "he's just about as usual; there ain't no improvement one way or the other."

Things That Pass—Magistrate: "Describe what passed between you in your quarrel with your wife." Accused: "The plates were regular dinner size, your worship, and the teapot had a broken spout."

After the Restaurant Meal—Waiter: "Beg pardon, sir, but the amount I have entered on your bill does not include the waiter!" Customer: "Well, I suppose it does not. I didn't eat one."

Discouraging—"Poetry should be written on one side of the paper only, shouldn't it?" asked a young versifier. "That depends on the poetry," replied the editor wearily. "Lots of it shouldn't be written on either side!"

An Awkward Compliment—Mills: "Did you see the pleased expression on Mrs. Johnson's face when I told her she didn't look any older than her daughter?" Mrs. Mills: "No, I was looking at the expression on her daughter's face."

Vague—"Do you know, Bessie, Mr. Bransham paid me a great compliment last night?" Bessie: "No. What did he say?" Maud: "He said I was among the prettiest girls at the party." Bessie: "Yes, I noticed you were among them."

Bitter Revenge—Two young bootblacks who had stands close together quarrelled. "I'll get even with that kid yet," vowed the smaller boy. "Go on to fight him, are yer, Jimmy?" he was asked. "Naw! When he gets thru polishing a gent, I'm going to say to that gent, 'Shine, sir, shine!'"

A Port Inquiry—A German officer in Brussels was explaining to an old lady that Germany was many times bigger than Belgium. "How is that?" she inquired. "That you can travel through Germany in three weeks, whereas you have taken over a year to get through Belgium, and you are not through yet?"

The Real Motive Power—"You know, my dear, that I'm the head of the house," said a husband. "You may be the head as much as you like," replied his wife. "But I'm the neck." "The neck? Oh, yes, you may be the neck if you want to, my dear." "Very well. It's the neck that turns the head whichever way it pleases. Isn't it?"

Study of Synonyms—Little Dottie was asked by her teacher to define the word "whimsical." "It means 'odd,'" she replied. "And now," the teacher went on, "please write a sentence containing the word, properly used." Hesitatingly the little ten-year-old took up a pen, and, after a moment's thought, wrote, "There are two kinds of numbers—whimsical and even."

Youthful Logic—"Mother, when I was at grandma's, she let me have fruit tart twice." "Well, she ought not to have done so," said her mother. "I think once is quite enough for little girls. The older you grow the more wisdom you will gain." Jenny was silent, but only for a moment. "Well, mother," she said, "grandma is a good deal older than you are."

More Anglers' Rivals—Two pavement "artists" were boasting about their skill. "Do you know," said one, "I painted a sixpence on the ground one day, and a boy nearly broke his fingers trying to pick it up." "That's nothing to what I did," said the other. "I painted a leg of mutton on a stone, and it was so realistic that a hungry dog ate half the stone before he found out his mistake."

A Long Look Ahead—A children's fête was attended by a royal courtier, who stopped for an instant to smile down upon one of the diminutive maidens taking part in it, and the child anxiously held up her wee mouth for a kiss, which she received. "Entel!" gasped her astonished mother, after the royal peeress had passed on. "How could you?" "I fought," said the girl. "It'd be interestin' to tell my granddaddy!"

A Necessity—"I am sending you some manuscripts," wrote a young and ambitious author. "I also enclose a letter of introduction from my clergyman, one from my Sunday School teacher, and a paragraph from our local paper, announcing my adoption of a literary career. Is there anything else I can send you to interest you in my writings?" "Dear Madam," wrote the editor in reply. "You need send me but one more thing—a good short story!"

WHY WAS LATE LORD MAYOR M'CURTAIN FOULY MURDERED?

Calgary Writer Ascribes Tragedy to His Attendance at Veterans' Meeting.

"The people are seeking for a reason why the lord mayor of Cork, apparently a popular Sinn Féin leader, elected three months ago by an unanimous vote to fill the civic chair, should have been foully murdered," writes Green-Crest Heights resident. "To one, however, who has followed the operations of the Sinn Féin, it is traceable to the murdered man attending a mass meeting of returned soldiers some days previously, when he and Professor Stockley, expressed sympathy and interest in the veterans."

WERE "DOOMED"
"Shortly after they both received letters stating they were 'doomed' men, the letters bearing sketch of a skull and crossbones. Apparently the 'inner circle' of the Sinn Féin distrusted the late Lord Mayor, especially after an attempt had been made on the life of Professor Stockley. When the former expressed his horror at the act, and offered to take over the protection of the people and swear in special constables to preserve order. It is significant that he was done to death the following night."

ANGERED THE OUTLAWS
"Since he had become lord mayor he had on all occasions showed firmness and respect to all who differed with him on any point," states the correspondent. "This evoked the anger of the outlaws and they doomed him to a 'traitor's death.' The lord mayor of Limerick also received a threatening letter, with the accompanying skull and crossbones. "To anyone who knows the bitterness and implacable nature of these outlaws no deed is too bad for them to carry out. Servant girls in Cork who have been seen speaking to policemen have had their hair cut, and have otherwise been threatened. The present day Sinn Féin is but the 'Moonlight Fenian,' and 'murderer of cattle of days gone by.'"

NOTICE

HADN'T SEEN WELL DAY IN 25 YEARS

Mrs. Donovan Eats Anything, Nerves Are Calm, and She Sleeps Soundly Every Night.

"Just think of it! After being in wretched condition for twenty-five years, my wife's health has been completely restored after taking only five bottles of Tanale," said T. E. Donovan, who resides at 7695 Prince Edward Street, Vancouver, B.C., recently. "For all these years," he continued, "my wife has not seen a well day, and has had the worst sort of stomach trouble. She had no appetite to speak of, and when she did manage to force down a little something, it would sour and ferment and give her a terrible pain. She had the heartburn nearly all the time and her heart would palpitate dreadfully. Her back pained her so she could barely stoop over or move about. She was very nervous and the least little noise out of the ordinary would completely upset her, and even the rustling of a newspaper would get on her nerves. It was impossible for her to get a good night's sleep and she would get up in the morning feeling worse than when she went to bed. Then, too, she was troubled a great deal with constipation, and had to be taking some sort of laxative nearly all the time. She lost in strength and weight, and felt tired and worn out all the time."

"After reading so much about Tanale, and knowing of the good results others in our immediate community had gotten from it, she began taking it, and got better from the very first. Her appetite is simply wonderful, and everything she eats agrees with her perfectly. She does not suffer any more with gas nor does she have those pains in her back. Her nervousness is entirely gone, and she sleeps all night long without waking up once, and says she feels rested and refreshed in the morning. She has gained in weight and strength with every bottle she has taken and is more like herself than she has been for years. We both are more than pleased with the good results she has received from Tanale."

Tanale is sold in Red Deer by Gault-Cornett Drug & Book Co., and the leading druggist in every town.

ROY BEAVIS, ON STAND, ADMITS TO POSING AS HERO

Served Nine Months in England for Masquerading as Officer.

Evidence of the past career of Roy R. Beavis, the newly appointed Strathmore policeman, charged before Magistrate J. J. Dennis in the Calgary court with attempting to obtain money from the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, G.W.V.A., and Knights of Columbus, under false pretences, came to light in the hearing Tuesday morning, when Beavis was placed on the witness stand by his solicitor, J. O'Connor. He admitted having served a term of nine months in England for masquerading as an officer and also for posing as a soldier with the Victoria Cross, Legion of Honour of France, Distinguished Conduct medal; also for falsely posing as having suffered 27 wounds, while fighting with the Canadians in France. Beavis is now faced with a serious charge, it being alleged that he is posing as a doctor he attempted a statutory offence. This charge was read at the close of the court sitting today. The hearing on this charge and the disposition of the other cases will be continued on Thursday morning.

SIGNED OVER GRATUITY
On the witness stand, Beavis told the court that he had gone to the United States and served with the G.W.V.A. and the K. of C., upon his return to this city from overseas, and asked for the gratuity he was entitled to receive. He said he had not received anything from the Knights of Columbus, but that the Patriotic Fund gave him $200, and in return he gave them his gratuity as security. When the gratuity came through, the fall of 1920, he said he received $100 such, of the Patriotic Fund. He also obtained $70 from the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, and $50 from the association, but no settlement had yet been made.

PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"
When Beavis was brought up for trial Tuesday the plea of "not guilty" was entered, and his solicitor decided to alter the election to a preliminary hearing. After the evidence was submitted the counsel for the accused asked that the election be altered again and he would place Beavis on the stand to tell his own story.

Eric Harvey, appearing for the prosecution, proceeded to adduce evidence in regard to character, and claimed there was nothing relative to the charges in the testimony. Beavis appealed to the magistrate when the lawyer asked him regarding his history in England after being returned from France, where he had been on active service. Beavis said that he was now back in civilian life and endeavoring to make good, and he could not see why the court should wish to expose all his past conduct. Magistrate Davidson ruled that the questions of counsel should stand and Beavis admitted that he had been in trouble with the authorities in the old country. He said that besides being mixed up in a case for masquerading as an officer, he had also issued two cheques, one of which was worthless, as there were no funds to meet it, and the other was short some $11.

A photograph taken in a local studio was produced as evidence to show that Beavis had worn the decoration since coming to Calgary. He swore positively that the medal was only used for advertising purposes, and that the studio where he was working at the time, soliciting business for the firm. He said that the photographs were not given out.

The defendant was cross-examined by Mr. Harvey in regard to his operations since returning to this city. He admitted having posed as a doctor before some people, and many referred to him as "Doc." He told the court that he had not practised medicine, neither had he studied it.

INCREASE FREIGHT BY TAKING DOWN TARIFF WALL

Dr. Michael Clark Suggests Remedy to Remove Deficit on Government Railways.

Ottawa, April 21.—In speaking on the Grand Trunk agreement, the evening session of the House of Commons yesterday, J. J. Dennis (Joltite) said that it was a matter of policy whether the people as of old or the people who use the government railways would pay the deficit. Dr. Reid repeated that the matter of rates was in the hands of the railway commission, and it was the commission that the government would have to call upon parliament to pay the deficit.

Dr. Michael Clark (Red Deer) said that he thought a distinction between the general public and the users of the railways was a fanciful one. Surely the railway commission of the government lines in Canada made most of the people users of the railway. He thought that they should avoid "nagging criticism on details" get the bill through the house, and then get behind the government with the common object of making the railway pay. Under a scheme of protection, the tariff wall against foreign goods, the country after 50 years experience could not come back with a deficit of $37,000,000 on the year's operation of government roads. There was a remedy for it. Never mind increasing the freight rate, but increase the freight by which the tariff wall against British goods, and let there be a return of traffic for the trains which carry Canadian produce to the seaboard.

Great Britain was able at such a critical time as this to introduce a budget which shows a surplus of $244,000,000 under a system of free trade. By abolishing the tariff on British goods, Canada could share in this wonderful commercial progress and insure the property of the Dominion.

R. L. Richardson (Springfield) said that the Canadian people had committed themselves to the policy of the National Transcontinental Railway, which traverses a wilderness, and which would never pay till the crack of doom. The only point to be debated was whether or not the road ought to be abandoned. Personally, he thought it should be. The interlocking of the National Transcontinental and the Grand Trunk Pacific should be consolidated, its debts wiped out by public debt, and an effort made to make it pay in the future in conjunction with the paying roads under government control. Mr. Richardson deprecated increased freight rates, which would put $50,000,000 into the Canadian Pacific Railway treasury, where it was not needed, for every $50,000,000 in rates would bring to the national roads. Since it must all come out of the pockets of the public the latter would be a great deal better off in paying direct the deficit on operation of government roads. The Canadian public was responsible for the folly of the railway policy of the last forty-five years, and the public must face the music.

OVERALLS UNIT FORMED IN P. BURNS' OFFICE

The original Calgary overalls unit has been formed in P. Burns' office, and, within a few hours, it has grown into a membership of 75 men, who are planning orders of a new thing in spring overalls. The city commissioners Monday morning offered various suggestions as to the style of overalls that they proposed to adopt for themselves, and to advise the people to wear, in this banana belt climate. Mayor Marshall said that he was the fortunate possessor of a closet full of old clothes that would need only the addition of a few brass buckles and buttons to be converted into frass-class overalls.

Commissioner Graves said that the accepted regulation overalls would do nicely for him; for, since he had worn them once, he could do it again. Commissioner Sans, however, did not see why people should stop at overalls, and, therefore, intimated that if it should take any part in this offensive against the H.C.L. bug, he was going to include all the profiteers by going back to nature. Members of the Grain Exchange are said to be contemplating a similar bath.

Buy Life Insurance Now! Why?

EVERYONE who is not a profiteer deplores the high cost of living. The high cost of living however means that, for the present, money is of small value. All authorities are agreed that gradually normal prices will be restored. As soon as the supply exceeds the demand prices will begin to fall. What has this to do with life insurance? Everything.

If you have funds on hand to-day invest them in life insurance. This is the day of "cheap money." By the time your policy matures, it is practically certain money will have greatly increased in value and you will receive, for your cheap money, currency that will double have a greatly increased purchasing power.

There are many other reasons for buying a policy to-day. No other investment is safer and more certain of satisfactory returns. Think it over—now.

Decide now—to increase your insurance—now!

When in town call at our warehouse and examine the many desirable features of the IMPROVED COCKSHUTT DRILL. This drill is convertible from lever lift to power lift, for use with horses or tractors, equipped with rollers, poles and neckyokes, or with Engine Hitch as desired.

If you purchase an Improved Cockshutt Lever Lift Drill, and later you desire to add the Power Lift Attachment with Engine Hitch for Tractor, you can do so; or if you wish to add it for use with horses, you can do so, as it eliminates the work and stopping at the end of the field to lift the discs or shoes out of the ground or to put them in again.

It has a large sized Grain Box, and lids of box are metal covered. The feed device is known as the Fluted Feed Ped, and is positively the most satisfactory.

It is made in different sizes up to the 12 foot size, and can be equipped with double discs, single discs, or drag shoes, all interchangeable. It will pay you to investigate the merits of this Drill.

We carry a full line of Cockshutt and Frost & Wood Farm Implements: Adams Wagons; Brantford Carriages; Standard Grain Separators; Maple Leaf Grinders; Empire Gasoline and Kerosene Engines, and Wonder Farming Mills. We are agents for J. I. Case and Avery Tractor and Threshing Machinery.

It is Dangerous to Use Counterfeit Parts for the Ford

BY allowing your garage man to use imitation parts in repairing your car you not only invite repeated repair bills and more serious breakdowns, but you actually endanger your own life and the lives of others. Cheap and inferior parts used in connection with the steering control are liable to cause accidents of a very serious nature.

You Risk Your Life When You Use Imitation Spindles

In a recent test the tensile strength of the genuine Ford Vanadium Steel spindle arm was found to be over 100% more than that of the counterfeit machine steel part. The arms were submitted to shock, and the counterfeit arm broke at a pulling force equivalent to 11,425 pounds applied to a cross section. The same pulling force applied to a corresponding cross section of a genuine Ford spindle arm did not even change its original size or shape. In order to separate the genuine spindle arm it was necessary to apply a pulling force of 25,000 pounds.

The spindle arm is one of the vital parts entering into the control of a car, and by using spurious parts in such places, Ford owners are risking lives and property.

You are merely protecting yourself and avoiding repeated repair bills when you demand genuine Ford parts.

THE POST OFFICE

Mr. A. T. Stephenson, Secretary of Board of Trade, has received the following reply to his letter conveying copy of Board of Trade resolution re postoffice:—

Office of the Deputy Minister, Ottawa, April 7, 1920.

Dear Sir:—Yours of the 2nd instant received, forwarding resolution passed by the Red Deer Board of Trade, which has been carefully noted.

The action now desired by your Board is exactly what the Department intended doing during the year 1913. Funds were set aside for the alterations to the existing Court House building, but no action was taken thereon, in view of the objection of the municipality to the conversion of this building for postoffice purposes.

I shall bring the present resolution immediately to the attention of the Honorable the Acting Minister, with a view to the reconsideration of the proposal, if at all possible, in connection with any supplementary estimates which may be taken up at the present session of Parliament.

Yours very truly,
HUNTER,
Deputy Minister.
